we have ever seen in that building, except, perhaps, the great 'Conservative Convention' when Governor Kemper was nominated. Long before the hour announced for the speaking a vast crowd assembled at the The-

The stage was most beautifully decorated with the flags of all nations, while the most appropriate and attractive stage scenery had been set for the occasion. The speaker's chair was raised above the stage, and behind it the American colors were conspicuously planted. Miniature flags were also placed around the dress-circle, which added greatly to the effect of the decorations.

Before the speaking commenced fireworks and balloons were sent off in front of the Theatre, which attracted a large crowd outside. The balloons were splendidly made, and went off in fine style in a southwesterly direction amid the cheers of the vast crowd present.

The private boxes in the Theatre were re served for and filled with ladies, while every other portion of the building was crowded to its utmost capacity with Conservative vo-

Colonel Guy made a most eloquent and graceful address, in which he alluded in a delicate manner to the late friendly contest in which he had taken part. He then introduced Governor Walker amid deafening applause, and took his seat.

The ex-Governor, who is always received with the greatest enthusiasm, stepped to the front of the stage, while the immense audience greeted him with tremendous applause and enthusiasm.
